Our White Ribbon Week is NEXT week (November 14-18). Please watch for the tracker that will be attached to your students' learning plans all week. There is a place to initial each night as you review with your child(ren) what they learned that day. To celebrate our tracking all week, it will be HAT DAY on FRIDAY November 18th.

During White Ribbon Week, we will learn all about our amazing brains. Chemicals in our brains affect our moods, and we can help ourselves when we know how our brains work. For example, too much screen time might lead to headaches or anxiety; but we can turn our devices off and get outside for some fresh air and exercise and balance our brain chemicals out so that we feel better again.

If you'd like to see the videos we watch each day at lunch time during White Ribbon Week, please click on the links to the right.
